COSHOCTON LADY GIVES 1ST. CLEW TO MISSING HEIRS

Mrs. Ben Jacobs Of Roscoe May Share In Estate

Brother of Mrs. Agnes Ralls and Joseph Keagy married Priscilla Collins, who is supposed to reside in Canton, Ohio.

At last definite trace has been found of the missing heirs of the estate of John W. Collins, who forty years ago lived in the vicinity of Coshocton. Mrs. Agnes Ralls, of South Lawn avenue. Tuesday morning gave The Age the first tangible information which may lead to the locating of the heirs to the 160 acre farm in Oregon left by John Collins who died in January, 1908. Mrs. Ralls is a sister of Daniel Keagy, whose wife was Priscilla Collins, the one whose name was mentioned in the letter written The Age a few weeks ago by W. H. Peck, of Lamonta, Oregon, who is endeavoring to settle up the estate and place the land in Oregon in the possession of its rightful owners.

Has Written To Canton
Mrs. Ralls, who is a sister of Jos. Keagy, of this city, learned of the search for the missing heirs through The Age. She believes that her sister-in-law, Priscilla Collins, now resides in Canton. Mrs. Collins has a grandson, Jacob Collins, who also resides in Canton. At least Mrs. Ralls thinks he still lives there and has written a letter to him. She looks for an early reply as in case he has moved from Canton the letter will probably be forwarded to his new address.

Heirs In Roscoe
Mrs. Ralls also brings to light the fact that Mrs. Ben Jacobs, wife of the Roscoe postmaster is a daughter of George Collins, who was a half brother of John Collins. According to this, Mrs. Jacobs is a blood relative of the men whose estate is still unsettled. It is probable, however, that the wife of Mrs. Ralls' brother is more closely related. All in all, it looks very much as though the rightful owner of that Oregon farm would soon be determined.

LOST HIS LIFE IN THE RAPIDS

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Aug. 17.—After a great battle with the turbulent waters of Niagara river, August Sporer, 18, of this city, went to his death in Whirlpool rapids. With three boys Sporer went for a swim in the river at the former "Maid of the Mist" landing. He struck out at once for the middle of the stream and then turned toward the bridges. His companions called to him to turn back for the current is very swift at that point, but he kept on down stream and was caught in the great sweep. The boy struggled for a time against the current, but to no avail. Then, realizing that he was beyond human help and was to be carried through the rapids, which took the life of Captain Webb, and which have resisted every unaided human effort at passage, he deliberately turned down stream and began a grim fight for life. Although but a frail boy, Sporer went into the rapids swimming strongly and held his own until he struck the giant wave which curls up opposite the old battery elevator. Then he went under. Again and again he disappeared, only to reappear each time fighting desperately against the terrible current. Then, when within 300 yards of the whirlpool, his strength gave out and he sank and was lost to view. Even then he had swum perhaps 100 yards farther than did the great English swimmer, Captain Webb.

MAPLE CASE UP TOMORROW

Judge Weygandt of the Common Pleas bench will be in Coshocton Wednesday to hear the J. R. Maple-Gail Hamilton case. Judge Weygandt issued to Glenn and Voorhees the attorneys for the ex-chief an alternative, write of mandamus on August 9, giving the mayor until Wednesday August 18, to either restore Maple to his job or show why Maple should not be restored. The mayor will be ready Wednesday to give all reason showing why Maple has not been restored. As far as is known there will be no other cases heard Wednesday. Late this afternoon Mayor Hamilton through his attorneys, Merrell and Williams filed in common pleas court a motion asking that J. R. Maple make his petition more definite and certain. Another motion was filed asking that the court strike out certain matter which they claim to be "irrelevant and immaterial."

Albert Schenk, while at work at the Vail Co., let a piece of metal fall on his right foot mashing it. He will not be able to go back on the job for some time.

Isaac Ferrell Found Dead By His Wife

Isaac Ferrell, one of Coshocton's highly respected citizens, slept peacefully away at his home on South Seventh-st. Monday night, the end being doubtless due to heart trouble. His wife found him dead in bed about 9 o'clock when she was preparing to retire. Mr. Ferrell had been enjoying usual health and had been down town Monday afternoon. He was tired and went to bed early. The end evidently was peaceful. Born in Mercer Co. Pa., July 28, 1835, he was 74 years of age. He came to Coshocton Co. at the age of three with his parents who settled in White Eyes. Late in life he moved to Coshocton where for many years he was a butcher, retiring from active business eleven years ago. He married Susan Albert Dec. 29, 1854 and the fruits of the marriage were eight children, one of whom, Blanch, died several years ago. The other surviving children are: Mrs. Elizabeth Garver, Kent; Mrs. Aditha

School For Blind To Open Sept. 20

Owing to the absence of John C. Fisher, the newly appointed trustee for the Ohio School for the Blind, the board of that institution did not re-organized yesterday, as had been expected. The school will open Wednesday Sept. 22, indications pointing to a large enrollment. The staff this year will have three new teachers, Miss Lola Allison of Steubenville and Miss

HAND CUFFED MAN LEAPED FROM FREIGHT; LEG BROKEN

Samuel Stiner, 23, broke his right leg just above the knee and injured his back Monday evening at about 4:30, when he jumped from a fast west bound freight, with handcuffs on near Conesville. He was trying to escape from railroad detective Doney of this city. His home is in Warren, Ohio. The young fellow was seen first by Doney at the Northern end of town and the detective at once boarded the train to arrest him for illegal train riding. He caught Stiner at a short distance below town and hand cuffed him. Stiner took the first chance that offered itself and climbed to the step and swung to the ground. At the time the train was moving at about 40 miles per hour. The boy tripped when he struck the ground and was thrown forcibly to the ground. The boy had no sooner left the train than Doney noticed that he was gone and immediately he began a search of the train but not finding him he stopped the train and the crew started back looking for the boy. He was found lying as one dead between the tracks. The first east bound train was flagged and the boy was brought to Coshocton. He was met at the station by Wolfe's ambulance and hurried to Wolfe's office. Drs. Cone and Lower were called who set the broken bones. He was sent to his home in Warren on train No. 8.

TREATMENT OF CRIMINALS

Topic Discussed by the Prison Association Congress.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 17.—The debate in the American Prison association congress on the "Indiana plan" for preventing the propagation of criminals and idiots developed almost unanimously in favor of the plan. The report of the committee of prevention and probation, represented by Judge Ben Lindsey of the Denver juvenile court, said in part: "Our criminal law, as it came down to us through feudalism, was an instrumentality of government far from perfect, even for the purposes for which it was intended. Admitting that it was necessary and justifiable as a system in that period of social development, as we must, yet we must equally admit it must do more harm than good as long as it rests alone on force, violence, vengeance and punishment. The time may come, however far in the future it may be, or how unprepared we may be for it now, when the state will come to deal with a criminal much as we now do with the insane."

GRAY HAIRS BANISHED

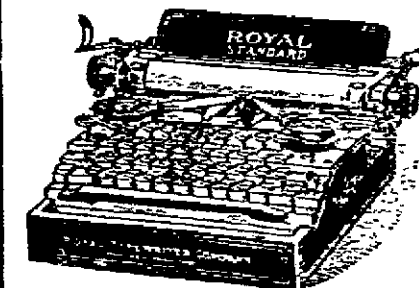

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of seventy-five, while our mothers have white hair before they are fifty. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The tea made their hair soft and glossy and gradually restored the natural color. One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days on account of its soiling quickly. This objection has been overcome, and by using almost any first-class druggist for

Pottery Scale Expires Oct. 1

Joint meeting of the Conference Committees to be Held in Pittsburgh next Tuesday to take definite action.

The joint meeting of the conference committees of the National Brotherhood of Operative Pottery and the United States Manufacturers' Association will convene Tuesday, Aug. 24, at the Fort Pitt Hotel, Pittsburgh, for the purpose of taking definite action on the proposed changes in the wage scale now existing in the pottery trade, says the East Liverpool Tribune.

The wage scale between the manufacturers and the workmen is scheduled for a period of two years and the present scale expires Oct. 1 of this year. Any change in the schedule requires a notice of at least one month from either side. The changes now proposed are those passed at the late convention of the operatives held at Atlantic City.

At the opening of the convention of the operatives a communication was received from the manufacturers asking that, prior to the adjournment of the convention, a conference committee be arranged for and given absolute authority to deal with a similar committee from the manufacturers' association. This action was taken by the operatives and it is a committee to be appointed by President T. I. Duff which will meet with the manufacturers at Pittsburgh, Aug. 24.

The manufacturers will be represented in the conference by the members of their labor committee, composed of the following: W. E. Wells, chairman; H. N. Harker, John N. Taylor, W. L. Smith, T. A. McNicol, George C. Thompson, of East Liverpool; J. H. Melham and Moses C. Clear, Trenon, and F. A. Sebring, of Sebring.

The operatives have 39 propositions which were passed at the late convention and these will constitute all the questions to be considered. The manufacturers will not present any counter propositions to the operatives. A communication was sent to the manufacturers by the operatives some time ago asking that they submit any proposition which they had in mind 30 days before the time of the conference. As none are to be presented

CHAPTER II.

JAMES SMITH, superintendent of the Latin-American Steamship company's docks, had arrived in response to the president's summons, conveyed to him by the telephone. Smith, known to his familiars as Jimmy, was a tall, gaunt, angular man, bearing all over him the stamp of westerner. He was, in fact, from Colorado, where he began his active career by engaging in mining. Scant success attended his efforts in this direction, however, and after working with the dogged determination that was one of his traits until even his patience was exhausted he finally entered the employ of the steamship company in whose service he had risen to his present position, with headquarters in New York.

There was something about Smith that caused men, and women also, for that matter, to take to him on sight. The unbounded good nature, big heartedness and unselfishness beaming in his blue eyes and in his winsome smile were written in every line of his clean shaven face. Another thing that made him remarked by all who came in contact with him was his absolute imperturbability. In all his thirty-seven years of existence he never had been known to "get a move on," not even when a premature blast in a mine had sent the diggers helter skelter for safety and carried death and suffering to many. Smith had walked tranquilly away amid the rain of rock and earth until it was all over. Then he had returned and organized the work of rescue, his placidity causing the others instinctively to look to him for direction. Nor was his speech more hurried than were his movements. He spoke but little, and then his words came in a quiet, even, distinct drawl. But he "got there" as quickly as most men, and a good deal quicker than some whose nerves were highly strung and with whom rapidity of action was as necessary as breathing, for he was possessed of keen powers of observation and common sense, an earnestness of purpose that gave his utterances weight and an integrity as unshakable as the rock of Gibraltar. As a fitting, almost necessary, complement of such a nature he was endowed with a sense of humor that added not a little to the attraction he exercised for those who knew him sufficiently well to be able to appreciate his qualities of heart and mind.

He took a calm, all embracing survey of the office as he entered, looked over to Brooks' desk and saluted him with a cordial motion of the hand and instructed a boy to notify Captain Williams of his arrival. He was ushered immediately into the chief's presence.

"That worthy, who, like his superintendent, was clean shaven, was seated at his desk in his shirt sleeves, and the whole room, despite the wide open windows, was thick from the smoke from an old blackened corncob pipe at which he was puffing vigorously. He was a burly man, and the short, thick neck, the broad shoulders, the powerful, big jointed fingers and the muscles that stood out in bunches on the hairy arms disclosed by his rolled up shirt sleeves denoted that he possessed usual physical strength. An ugly man to get into an argument with was Williams, one who, it needed no mind reader to judge, would be capable of following the word with a blow that would crush an ordinary opponent. For years, as Brooks had intimated, he had led the roughest life a man can lead, hammering by sheer brute strength a way to wealth by ways in which scruple had counted for nothing at all and expediency for a good deal, and his entrance upon a higher plane of civilization had not imparted much polish to his appearance, habits or speech, which were those of the old time sailing ship mariner, although of late years he had striven to conform more closely to the examples of refinement he witnessed in the only polite society he cared for, which was that of the family of his dead friend, Stanley Harris, who was general manager of the Latin-American line when he obtained control of it. He had a way of glancing at a person from under his bushy eyebrows with a scrutiny that seemed to read through and up and down him and made him most ill at ease under it.

He made his decisions promptly, authoritatively, after the manner of a man accustomed to command and to be obeyed without question, and he never changed them, at least in his business and administrative dealings. Add to all this a voice like a foghorn, the effect of which, when he raised it, was, as he knew full well, to make his subordinates quake and to intimidate others who had to do with him, and it will be realized that he lived up fully to his reputation of being a hard man.

For his quiet, unmoving and thoroughly capable dock superintendent he entertained a certain respect. He knew from experience that the man was not the least bit afraid or even disturbed by his bullying manner and his bellowing and that his glare, always squarely met, had no more effect upon him than it would have upon the bronze statue of Washington which stands sentinel on the steps of the sub-treasury in Wall street.

Smith lowered himself slowly and easily into a big armchair beside the president's desk.

"Two delegates from the Longshoremen's union were here just now," announced the captain. "They say the freight handlers are going to strike."

"Yes," said Smith interrogatively.

"Yes. What do you know about it?"

"Nothing, except that they came to me with a demand for higher pay for the men. I referred them to you."

"Well, I didn't leave 'em any loophole for doubt as to my position in the matter."

"You turned them down?"

"Turned 'em down? Of course. What do you think? Suppose I handed 'em a raise on a silver platter and bowed 'em out of the door?"

"I don't suppose anything about it. I'm asking for information."

"Then two blatherskites came swaggering and blustering in here and said every last one of the men would quit tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock unless they got 2 cents more an hour. They weren't swagging when they went out of here, I tell you. I pretty soon took the starch out of 'em."

A faint smile flitted over the superintendent's face, but he ventured no remark.

"I told 'em," Williams went on, "that I wouldn't give 'em a cent a century more and to strike and bed— I also told 'em that any man who did go out would never see another job with this company, and if Sam, he won't."

The captain's voice had risen to a roar, and he brought his fist down on the desk with such force that pens and pencils went flying in all directions and the ink splashed from the wells in their sopping crystal stand.

"Then labor agitators ain't got no notion of the fitness of things. They ain't got a grasp on economic conditions for a cent. They got to do something to live without working, so every one in awhile they go to the men as pays 'em to be walking delegates, gives 'em some glib talk about their rights and advises 'em to strike for more money. Do they look around and try to find out whether an advance is warranted by the conditions? Nary a lick. Do any of the men they hand out their advice to try to find out? Not on your life! They go ahead like a lot of sheep and strike and starve and blame the result on capital."

Smith nodded.

"If they carry out their threat and quit," continued the captain, "you will clear all the strikers from the docks, throw 'em off if necessary, knock their silly blocks off, but tell them as wants to work that full protection will be given. I'll arrange with police headquarters to have a sufficient force of bluecoats on hand to guard our property and will also notify our docks at other ports to be prepared. You will fix up accommodations for the strike breakers in the sheds here until the trouble is over and make arrangements to bring men from the inland cities. In this matter you need spare no expense. Understand?"

"I guess so," replied the superintendent.

"Then it's up to you."

"Anything else you want to see me about?"

"Not now. You can get in touch with me any time you want me. You know about where I'm to be found."

Smith drew in his long legs, raised himself from the chair and took up his hat to go.

"See here, Smith," said the captain, his voice rising gradually to its fear-some bellow, "it's high on to two score years since I took my first vessel, the Sally Moran, out of Frisco as master and owner, bound for the south sea islands to trade, and I've commanded my own ship every minute since and held my own against all sorts of lubbers as would have done me and done for me if they could. And do you think I'm going to be dictated to by any white livered gas bag of a crawling delegate who comes here holding a knife to my throat by threatening a turnout without giving me a chance to meet it if I don't give in to his demands on the spot? No, sir, not by an all-fired sight! No, sir, not in a thousand years! I own this outfit from keel to main peak, and if I can't run it my own way I'll scuttle it and go down with it. Understand? And if any man's looking for a fight with me he'll find me quick enough, and I'll break him, no matter who or what he is. Yes, sir, by Sam, sir, like this!"

Seizing a thick ruler on the desk, he snapped it without apparent effort, and as he sat glaring there with his disheveled hair, his pugnaeous, massive underjaw protruding and his big fists tightly clenched on the broken wood, causing the muscles of his arms to bulge like knots on a gnarled tree, he presented the embodiment of might and ferocity.

Board of State School For Blind Fails To Reorganize

Columbus, O., Aug. 17.—Owing to the absence of J. C. Fisher, the newly-appointed trustee of the Ohio School for the Blind, the board of that institution did not reorganize, as had been expected. The old board met and transacted routine business, and unless some unforeseen occasion should arise, the new board will not meet before Sept. 20. The school will open Sept. 22, and indications point to a large enrollment. The staff this year will have three new teachers, Miss Kolia Allison of Steubenville, Miss Merta Menger of Mansfield and Miss Olga Welberg of Cleveland. There is a general impression that the trustees will not reorganize the institution.

Delegates Prefer Peace.
Denver, Aug. 17.—The Ballinger-Pinchot feud may not be carried from Spokane to Denver. It had been expected that the controversy between friends of the two officials, which was a feature of the national irrigation congress at Spokane last week, would be resumed at the Transmississippi Commercial congress, which was formally opened in this city. However, many delegates oppose a recurrence of hostilities and are trying to have discussion of the controversy barred from the convention. The day was taken up largely with opening addresses.

Cures Heat-Constipation

At this time of the year city and county physicians are constantly warning the public to beware of sunstroke or over-ripe fruit, hot water, etc. But of more importance still is to warn parents of how their babies well open these hot days, and this applies to young people, too, especially to the extreme of ages. To be constipated is to be in danger of sunstroke. Also, it thickens and over-heats the blood, producing sick-headaches, loss of appetite, etc.

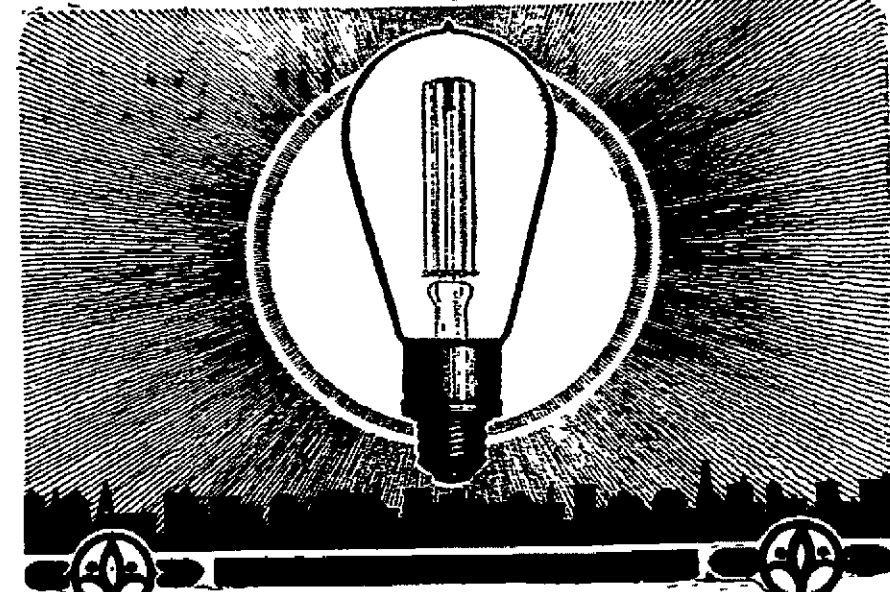

Instead of trying to get bowel movement by over-eating yourself with fruit (which is more likely to produce diarrhea than cure the constipation) use DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEP-SIN once or twice a week before retiring. It will clean out the bowels, tone the stomach and put the blood in good order. This remedy is a vast improvement over salts and purgative waters, tablets, pills, etc., for these are only temporary expedients.

DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEP-SIN is permanent in its effect and contains ingredients that tone and strengthen the body. Its pleasant taste and freedom from gripping recommends it to children and old people, who especially need a gentle laxative. Any druggist will sell you a bottle for only 50 cents or $1.00 and guarantee results.

GOATS AS TRAIL MAKERS

The brush eating instinct of the Angora goat is being successfully demonstrated on the Lassen National Forest in California where they are cutting trails for fire guards through the brushy areas on the slopes of the mountains.

The animals, which number 3,000 have been divided into two bands and under the care of the herders are grazed within certain well defined areas so that their work may be concentrated on the brush within those limits. The result is that they have practically killed nearly all the brush in the course either by eating it up entirely or by barking, as in the case of the heavy manzanita bushes. At the beginning of the experiment there was some doubt as to the goat's willingness to eat the manzanita, but it has been found that where there is little else they will just as readily attack it as any other bushes.

The grazing season was so late this year on the Lassen Forest that the goats did not begin operations until about the middle of June, but since then they have made rapid progress and the result promises to be a success from every point of view. The trails will first be opened and then kept free of sprouts by the goats, saving the government considerable labor in cutting them out by hand as has been done heretofore, while the brushy forage which otherwise would have been wasted will support 3,000 goats very comfortably.

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE?

Nothing, not even Russia, is so arbitrary as the United States Postal department in its varied and ominous rulings. The department seems a law unto itself, and all sufficient too, for they sit supreme and those who unintentionally violate one of the rules, buried under yards of red tape, hardly care to pose as martyrs and pay fines that the deficit which is caused by carrying congressional "franks" free, may be wiped out. Every once in a while some newspaper publisher finds his whole edition thrown out of the mails because there is something down in the lower left hand corner of an inside page in which it says, perchance, that the ladies of the church around the corner are going to give numbered tickets with every admission at the church social and whoever gets the lucky number will get a nice fresh custard pie. For instance, the local newspapers had to print extra editions at the time of the award of lots in the Clow addition because the department at Washington deemed that any mention of such an event was lottery and nothing else. The decisions are not by a postmaster, but he has the rules, just the same as stamps on a letter, and must abide by the commands of his superiors.

So far, so good. If the department will and can enforce such rules, there are few if any who will not abide by them, rather than pay a fine or serve a sentence in jail. But—and here is the rub—Uncle Sam ought to take a dose of his own medicine. The newspapers have been full for the past few days of the great land drawing the government has been conducting out in Montana and various citizens are to be congratulated upon their luck in drawing quarter sections of fine land. Wherein does such an event differ from the award of lots in the Clow addition to Coshocton; or the pie at the church social? If one is lottery, all of them are.

WEDNESDAY.

Christian Endeavor of M. P. Church has business meeting. Christian Union social. Meeting of choir of Church of Christ. Meeting of the M. P. stewards. Dinner at Country club for Miss Haller.

It is only a matter of a few weeks until the various literary and musical organizations of the city will hold their opening meetings for their winter work. On the opening day a few of the clubs—the Woman's Club and the Coshocton Historical club—have what is known as "President's Day," and hold an informal reception, instead of giving a scheduled program. The rest of the clubs, however, open with a complete program, with all of the new officers on duty. On September 10th the Home Study Circle will hold its opening meeting. The opening day for the Woman's club is set for the 15th, and on the following Monday, Sept. 20, the Wranglers and the New Century club hold their initial sessions. The missionary societies, which have taken up literary work pertaining to home and foreign missions, have resumed their sessions, after a brief recess during the first two weeks of August.

The Woman's Music Club, the Singer's Club, the Chautauqua Circle, the Roscoe Woman's club, and the Parent-Teacher's Club, have not prepared their calendars for the winter. At least they are not yet completed. But their first meetings will be held about the middle or last of September, except the Singer's Club, which is rather late in starting, opening early in October. All of the clubs are anticipating a delightful winter, and the programs are certainly bright for interesting meetings, as all of the programs which have been completed are unusually attractive and full of interest.

HEAVY BUSINESS FOR THE RAILROADS

Chairman Knapp and Others Fear Car Shortage.

Washington, Aug. 17.—Chairman Knapp of the interstate commerce commission predicts a heavier business than ever has been known in a single year for railroads during the present fiscal year. A situation anticipated not only by Judge Knapp but by other officials of the commission, and by operating railroad men generally, is that there may be a shortage of cars. The crop prospects are considered so bright that it is probable the railroads and other transportation companies may be taxed beyond their capacity to handle the freight that will be offered to them.

Already, according to figures submitted to the interstate commerce commission, the railroads in considerable numbers have recovered from the low business pressure of a year and a half ago, and now are handling almost as much traffic as they handled in the rush months of 1907, which was the banner year in American railroading. In the view of Chairman Knapp, the carriers are now in better position to carry the freight offered than they were in 1907.

MILITIAMEN SHUT OUT

Member of Marine Corps Makes a Record at Camp Perry. Camp Perry, O., Aug. 17.—In the Catrow match, Sergeant J. H. Hingle of New York, a member of the United States Marine Corps, broke the world's record for seven shots at 800, 900 and 1,000 yards. Hingle made a perfect score at each range. The nearest approach to his performance was the 161 made here a year ago in the Leech cup match of the national association. Marines captured not only the $500 cup given by Colonel H. C. Catrow of the Third Ohio, president of the Ohio State Rifle association, but also secured second and third cash prizes—$25 and $20. Corporal W. A. Fragner and Private George Farshaw each scored 193. Still another marine, Captain C. H. Lyman, got eighth prize. Of the 12 prizes the marines got four. With the exception of fourth prize, $15, which was taken by Captain Casey, inspector of small arms practice of the Second Pennsylvania, all the 12 went to the regulars. The militiamen were shut out, as they were last year, from the first four places in the national match.

Fired by Lightning. Morehead, Ky., Aug. 17.—Lightning struck one of the large tanks in the Ragland fields, eight miles west of here, and 35,000 barrels of crude petroleum were burned, with a loss exceeding $25,000.

Nagel to Invite Hill.

Washington, Aug. 17.—Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor decided to invite James J. Hill, president of the Northern Pacific railroad, to act as one of the government's agents in the entertainment of the 30 or more representatives of the Japanese chambers of commerce who will visit the United States in September. It is likely that the secretary himself or Assistant Secretary McHarg will also accompany the party on its tour of the eastern cities.

Sutton Inquiry Closed.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 17.—The Sutton court of inquiry closed after two secret sessions, during which the testimony relative to the death Oct. 13, 1907, of Lieutenant James N. Sutton, Jr., U. S. M. C., was gone over thoroughly. The findings were reached and signed. What they are the members of the court refused to say, as they will be reviewed by the navy department at Washington before being made public.

Lost on Mount Rainier.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 17.—Joseph W. Stevens of Trenton, who with T. P. Callaghan of West Seattle, who are supposed to have perished in an effort to ascend Mount Rainier, near Tacoma, Wash., left this city three weeks ago on his vacation. He is a member of the board of free holders of Mercer county and a general contractor. His family received a letter from him in which he said he would leave for Portland, Ore., within a few days.

AUTUMN DRESS

GOODS AND SILKS

In our "Dress Goods and Silk Store" are displayed for the first time, the very newest creations for fall costumes, season '09.

Long ago the superb style and attractiveness of the materials carried in this section—have served to make ours the leading "Fabric Store" of the city. But how incomplete our former efforts appear, in comparison with the immense range of new Fall stuff, just freshly put in stock—For instance, ask to see:

The wonderful assortment of Dress Goods in every wanted weave and color, chic and strictly up to the minute in style at $1.00.

The finer and better Dress Goods, some with that exquisite satin finish in shadow effects and in all shades—others of the cheviot and diagonal weaves suitable for strictly tailored garments and separate long coats at $1.25 and $1.50.

Plain Serges, Panamas, Satin Prunellas, Satin Leutenas, etc., etc., at 50c, 75c, $1.00 that are far above the average at the prices asked.

THE NEW SILKS ARE HANDSOME

Jolly Party Off For Algonac

In personal charge of Charles Hamilton of Pittsburgh, 1 P. M. of the Wash. a jolly party of between 40 and 50 left Coshocton at 4:45 pm Tuesday going to Algonac.

The Pullman sleepers ran "special" as one train, the change having been made Tuesday morning owing to difficulties up the line that precluded the later train that had been planned. Warsaw and West Lafayette people came on the earlier trains and all started on a most pleasant journey.

The special will arrive in Detroit early in the morning and they will go aboard the steamer Tashmos for breakfast. For one solid week they will remain at cool Camp Algonac, which all is varied pleasures and rest.

The excursion, given under the auspices of The Age, is not only a pleasure but quite the best that ever left this vicinity. For $18 not only all transportation going and coming, including Pullman berths, but all expenses for a week at Algonac are paid.

School Will Open Monday September 13

At a called meeting of the school board Monday evening, Monday, Sept. 13th was set as the date for the opening of the school year of 1909-1910. Indications are that the enrollment will be larger than it has been for a number of years. While no radical changes have been made in the courses of study offered in the curriculum, each course is a thorough and complete one.

RAN SPLINTER IN HIS HAND

Harvey Hook met with a painful accident while at work this morning at the Meek Co. He was sawing wood with a buzz saw when the saw struck a knot in the wood, which caused the board to break, throwing a piece of the splintered board in to his right hand. Dr. McClain attended him.

"Yes," answered Mr. Bliggins. "It isn't well."

"What's the ailment?"

"I don't know. The only thing I'm sure of is that it isn't the sleeping sickness."—Washington Star.

REDS WILL BE AWAY FROM HOME

(By ZUBER)

CINCINNATI, Aug. 17.—Just as we were getting used to seeing the Reds doing stunts on the local laws again they're off. With the games of Sunday, Aug. 15, when the Bostonians gave a double performance for one price of admission there will be nothing doing on the local pasture in a baseball way until September. But when the team does come home again it will be practically for the rest of the season, as not more than half a dozen games are scheduled away from home during the last five weeks. And during this time there will be many new faces introduced to the fans. President Herrman, Manager Griffith and the various scouts have picked up a sufficient number of recruits already to make glad and interested the heart of the fans, and a majority of these rookies will be allowed to appear in the fall maneuvers, when their real ability is easier discernable than during the spring training. Third Basemen Dolan is already on the ground, and within the next few weeks several others will be in. Then for a hot finish.

Chicago Looks Good
 During the past week the National League pennant race has taken on additional interest from the fact that the Chicagoans have moved up to within striking distance of the Pittsburgs and may overtake the Pirates at most any old time. Then general impression among the close students of the game is that the Cubs are due to win another pennant. This conclusion is based on the starting qualities of the Chicagoans and the fact that the Pittsburg pitchers gradually are slumping.

Another month, it is claimed, will establish the superiority of the Cubs beyond question, making the finish much less spectacular than it was last year.

Invented Spit Ball
 A new discovery has been made in connection with the authorship of the "spit ball" that much condemned but effective adjunct to modern twirling methods. It transpires that Frank Corridon was the original user of the "spit ball" and confided his recipe to Elmer Strickland, who improved on it and so got the credit for being the creator. Corridon told this story during the stay of the Phillies here, being corroborated by Pitcher Scanlon, of the Brooklyn, who said that Strickland had told him of the facts in the case.

Talking
 Jim Jefferies has departed for Europe, and to date no wireless message have been received from him. This has given Johnson all the stage for talk, but the colored man has kept unusually quiet. Before he sailed Jefferies said that no "flat-footed mope" could ever lick him, and as Johnson answers to a description of a mope to lose when they meet. It is said that an Irish sporting club will offer $50,000 for the fight, but as yet the bid has not been formally made.

Tariff Blocks Racing
 American turfmen may be compelled to give up racing on Canadian tracks, as the treasury department declares that under the new tariff law they are no provision for bringing duty on the United States, free of duty any days that are taking across the border from this country. Rather than pay the 5c fee that will be demanded, American owners will stick to this side of the line.

Washington's Plague Spots lie in the low, marshy bottoms of the Potomac, the breeding ground of malaria germs. These germs cause chills, fever and argue, biliousness, jaundice, lassitude, weakness and general decay and bring suffering or death to thousands yearly. But Electric Bitters never fail to destroy them and cure malaria troubles. "They are the best all-around tonic and cure for malaria I ever used," writes R. M. James, of Louellen, S. C. They cure Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Blood Troubles and prevent Typhoid. Try them. Guaranteed by C. E. Anderson, Coshocton and by C. M. Ferguson, Roscoe, O.

SALES TODAY FOR JAPAN

Baron Takahira sailed for Japan today on the Tanga Maru. At a farewell dinner, exclusively Japanese, given here in a Buddhist temple, the ambassador told his countrymen that they were themselves in large measure responsible for any ill feeling between Japan and the United States.

FRANK WILSON WORKING NEW POLO DEAL

Frank Wilson, who is well known in Coshocton having been instrumental in organizing the Ohio State polo league, is now engaged with Sam Marquis and John Davis in organizing a league composed of eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania towns.

Today's Cleveland Plain Dealer says:

Roller polo is to be revived in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania the coming winter on a scale hitherto unattempted. A circuit of five towns is now in the process of formation and the backers of the proposed organization intend putting the roller skating game on a better basis than four years ago.

Plans are now being developed by which Canton, Youngstown, Akron, Sharon, Newcastle, Beaver Falls and several other cities will have a chance at the game, which was so popular a few years since.

Four years ago roller polo was introduced in the cities which now compose the Ohio and Pennsylvania baseball league. The game caught on at once. From a semi-professional beginning it developed rapidly until within a season it had assumed the proportions of a profitable and popular amusement. Being played in the evening, polo outdoor baseball drew a large crowd.

When the game was established thoroughly, players demanded salaries in excess of what the box office receipts would allow and as a result the league gradually declined and the game reached an unprofitable basis.

Many of the star men jumped to the east and to the Ohio league and interest waned.

At the time the game was at its height roller skating was popular. Rinks sprang up like mushrooms and this helped in promoting the professional sport. Now, however, most of the rinks have been turned into dance halls.

Sam Marquis, John Davis, Frank Wilson and other men who made the old Interstate league are behind the new venture. Marquis was in Cleveland yesterday on business connected with the new league. He has a plan whereby 2,000 people can be seated in any of the rinks now used for

If you are figuring on running for a ward office, do you know the lines of your ward, and where to ask for names for signers of your petition?

Here is The Age's Ward Map that tells the story at a glance. Study it carefully and cut it out and put in your pocket. A man in politics can't get along without it.

Players Will Return
 The promoters have consulted many of the star players who used to be in the Interstate. Every one is willing to return to this section. Jimmy Cavan, who managed Erie and who is scouting for the Detroit baseball club, will bring back a delegation of the best polo players in the country. They are all displeased with the treatment they received in the east after leaving the Interstate and are willing to play in Ohio again.

The roller polo game, when it thrived hereabouts three years ago, was a popular pastime. Crowds of 2,000 were not infrequent any night in the week. The game drew better than minor league baseball because it was played in the evening when people were at leisure.

The promoters feel sure a revival of polo will be profitable. The only thing that broke up the league before was the attitude of the players. Unlike ball players the supply of roller polo men is limited because only a few have an opportunity of developing skill. When the good players went east interest in the Interstate declined. Now the men are disgusted with the lack of success of the game

STOMACH LIVER LUNGS

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach. Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

Given Away.—Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, new revised Edition, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 31 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Ranch" Coming

"The Flower of the Ranch" is coming to the Sixth-st. theatre early this season. It adds one more to the already long list of first classed shows and Coshocton is promised a good lively theatrical season during 1909-10. The Flower of the Ranch is a musical comedy and is doubtless the best ever given the public in the musical comedy line. This play proved a winner from its opening and has been kept continually in the larger cities. There is a strong plot presenting an interesting story of western life.

Had It Stored In Small
Corner Of His Brain

Do you believe in the sub-conscious mind, that Prescelle talked so much about, and which forms the basis of the Emmanuel movement? Whether you do or not, here is a good story that came to light locally yesterday.

A prominent professional man had occasion to get some papers out of his safe, but for the life of him could not remember the combination, as his stenographer usually opened and closed the strong box and the stenographer was out of the city.

The demand for the papers was imperative and in desperation he telephoned a former clerk to come and try to open the safe. The person answered to declared that it was utterly useless; that it had been several years since he had manipulated the combination and he had not the faintest idea what it was. As the importuning became most obdurate, however, he went to the office.

For ten minutes he twisted the knob, and had not the slightest idea what combination to figure to try. Suddenly, from an inner cell of the brain, there flashed the intelligence. With quick fingers the knob was turned with precision and accuracy—and the massive door swung open.

Five or six years had passed since the person had opened the safe, yet stored away in the brain was that combination of figures.

Do people forget things, or is it that the information is lying dusty in some unused pigeon hole of the mental apparatus?
